

Quantum Technologies Conference III

Public transport tickets

Public transport tickets can be easily bought at newsagent kiosks and in vending machines (also to be found at the airport). The most convenient deal in our case are 3 day tickets (Zone 1) which cost 24 PLN (6 EUR) and are valid on all routes within Warsaw (tram, bus, metro, suburban and airport train, ferry). You should validate them at the yellow machines inside the bus/tram/etc the first time you use one, to start the 3 day time period.

Travel to the conference hotel

Hotel Reytan

address: Rejtana 6, 02-516 Warszawa

Phone: +48 22 201 64 00

The easiest way to get to the hotel from the airport is to take a taxi from the taxi rink. The airport recommends three corporations: Ele Sky Taxi, Super Taxi, Sawa Taxi. Reputable taxis have the price per km clearly displayed on the window ( $\leq 3$  PLN per km) and a TAXI sign on the roof. The fare should be about 40 PLN, i.e. about 10 EUR.

We strongly advise you to avoid going with anyone soliciting taxi passengers inside the terminal or on the sidewalk outside. These are rogue unlicensed operators who prey on out-of-town passengers, and are always a major ripoff.

If you want to use public transport, getting to the hotel will necessitate one changeover, and will be less comfortable if you have sizeable luggage. Perhaps the easiest route is to take the 188 bus to Marszałkowska stop, then the 4 or 10 tram southbound two stops.

Travel to the conference venue

Instytut Fizyki Polskiej Akademii Nauk

address: Al. Lotników 32/46, 02-668 Warszawa

The simplest way is to take the 74 tram from the Rakowiecka tram-stop near the hotel (to be found soon after turning left onto the main street Puławska near the hotel) to the Rzymowskiego stop (14 stops) next to the galeria Mokotów shopping center. Take trams travelling to Służewiec, not the other way to Banacha. From there it is a couple of minutes walk to the institute.

On Monday morning we will meet the conference participants at 8:15 at the hotel to travel this route as a group for those who wish to come with us. We can aid in the buying of tickets.
